

American Faith Academy

Logic (7–8) Book List Included with Tuition

Learning to Reason

Logic students grow in reasoning, analysis, primary-source reading, essay writing, science, and independent learning habits through a structured classical curriculum rooted in Christian education.

Students engage formal logic and critical thinking while continuing integrated studies in history, theology, literature, composition, and science. They read primary source documents, analyze historical arguments, and write analytical essays that strengthen communication and reasoning skills.

Virtual Socratic seminars and guided discussions challenge students to think carefully, defend ideas clearly, and interact thoughtfully with classmates from across the country and around the world. Science instruction includes laboratory investigation, observation, and application of the scientific method.

As students mature academically, they begin taking greater ownership of their studies through time management, accountability, independent reading, and interdisciplinary thinking. The following titles are included with tuition as part of the American Faith Academy Logic curriculum.

Logic & Reasoning Argument analysis, structured thinking, and clear communication.	Structured Writing Essays, literary analysis, summaries, and thoughtful responses.	Accountability Time management, independent learning, and maturity-building habits.
